FROM JACQUELINE: CTE educator preparation

We want to share a potential opportunity posed by our Career and Technical Secondary Education (CTE) partners. They are working on communicating to prospective CTE instructors about services that may be available to them through adult education programs. These individuals may hold a high school credential or its equivalent and possess extensive experience in their respective skilled occupations, but need an academic refresher to qualify as "college ready," which is required for the CTE educator application process.

Therefore, we are making you aware of individuals who may come to your centers asking to brush up on their skills to take the SAT, ACT, and/or KYOTE to ensure their college readiness in pursuing a CTE teaching position. We expect these individuals to be TABE tested for eligibility of services (just like any other potential student). Eligible individuals should be enrolled in a program of study with the intent of making a level gain or transitioning to postsecondary education. CTE and KYAE agreed that adult education services are conveniently located and our local staffs strive to academically prepare students to transition as college- and career-ready.

Please share with appropriate staff. Thank you.
